

To get started, say "Hey siri". Click "Yes" and jump to page 2. You can click on the link https://www.canva.com/design/DAGVruGsc3A/d8UNXC-Cs\_MD\_FzokXg4g/edit?utm\_content=DAGVruGsc3A&utm\_campaign=designshare&utm\_medium=link2&utm\_source=sharebutton to see the clickable prototype.

If you think that what Siri recognizes is different from what you think, you can edit it to modify it by using the keyboard.

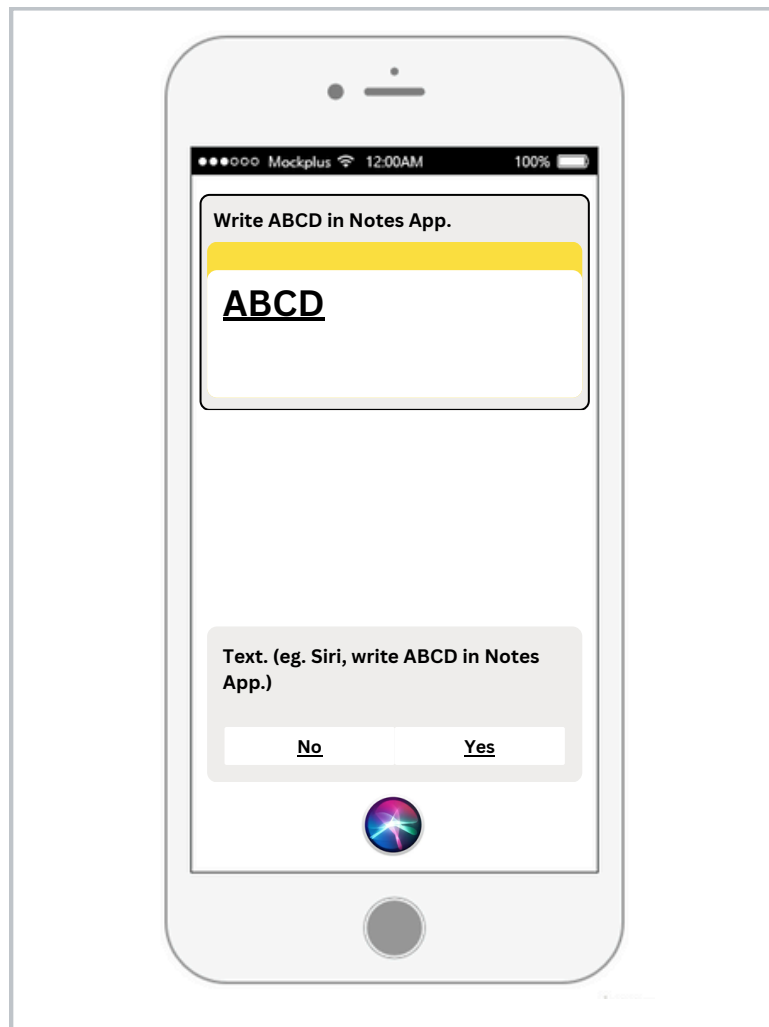

After opening the menu bar through Siri, we can click any option (eg. Notes, Weather and so on) to enter different pages.

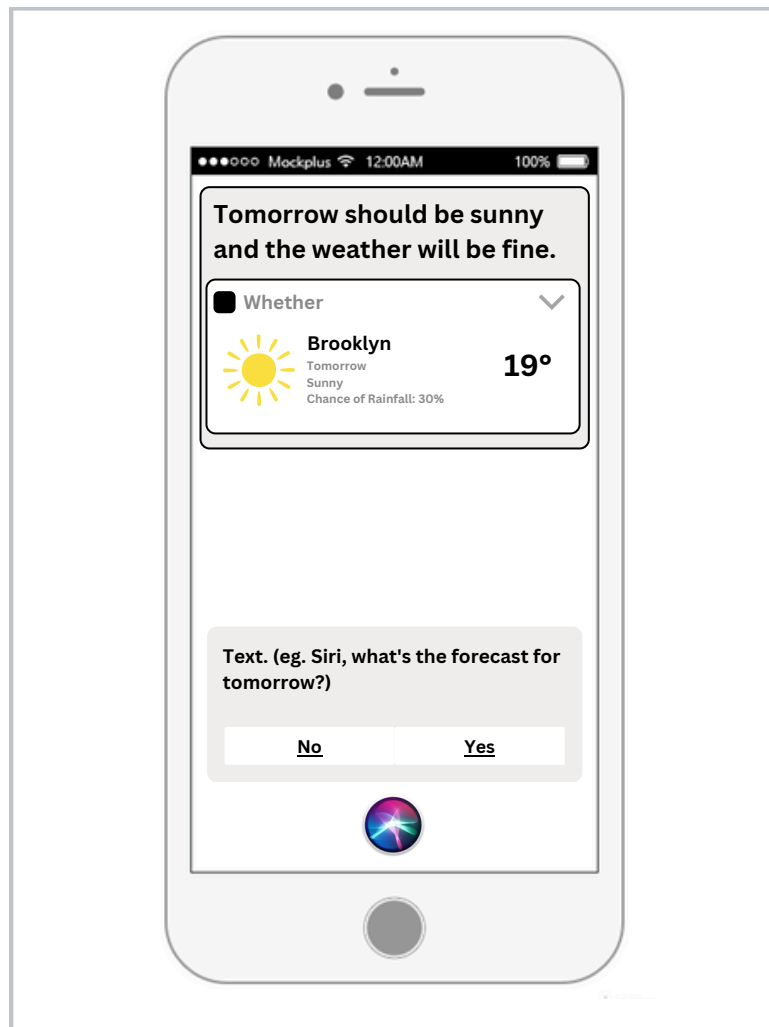

In the Notes app, you can use Siri to create any notebook and tap into it for further editing.

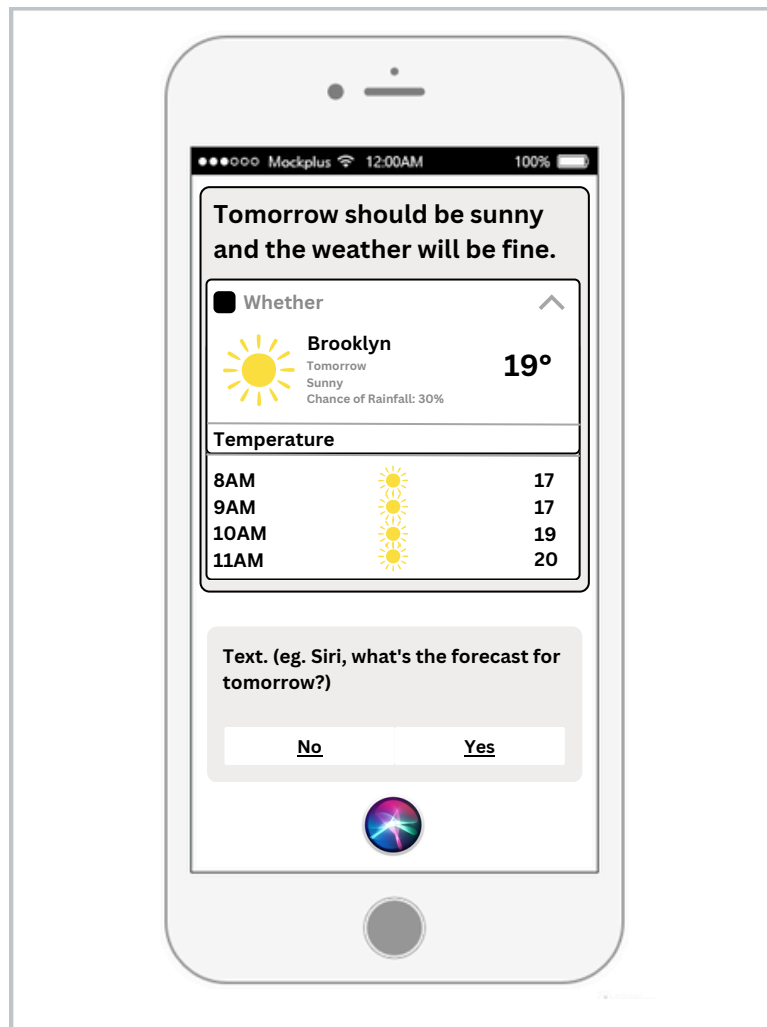

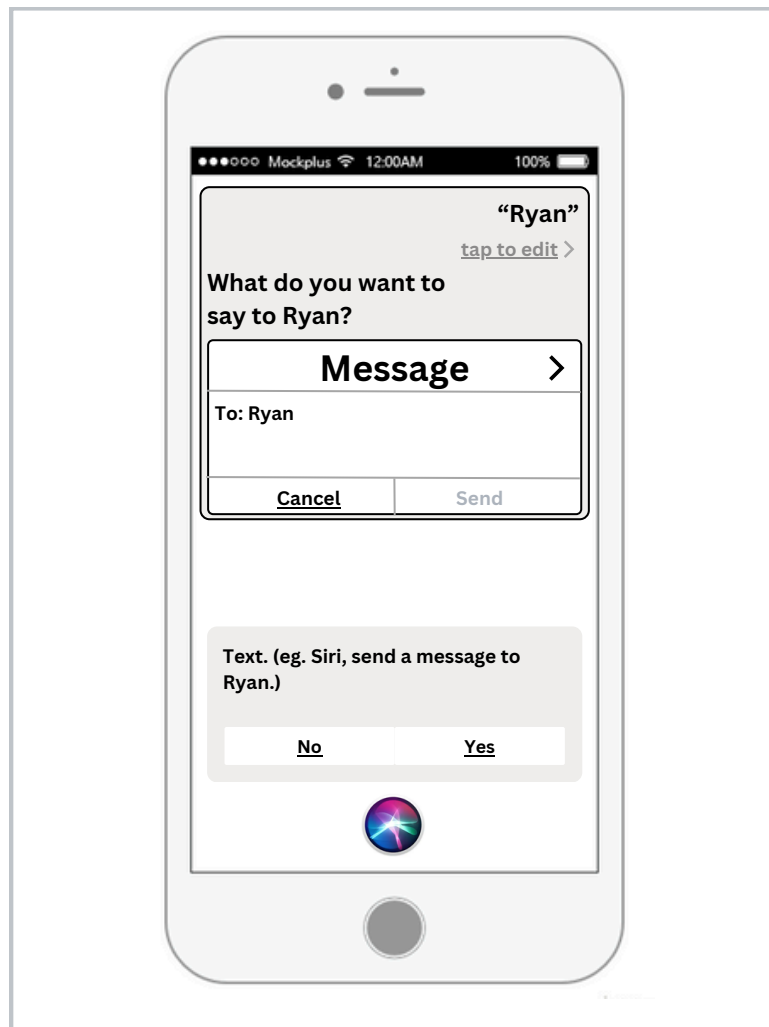

In addition, you can also ask Siri to write text directly on the home page. The window above will show the content you asked, and you can directly enter the Notes application by clicking on the small window.

This page shows that you can directly ask Siri about tomorrow's weather. The downward arrow in the small window can be expanded by clicking it.

You can send a text message to anyone in your phone's address book, and Siri will ask you further what you want to send. If Siri doesn't recognize the correct recipient, you can click "tap to edit" to edit it manually.
